Black Dress Fabrics.

There are many shops that leud values which are by no means actual. That is not our way. When we say worth we mean worth, and every essertion of value is stablished by the goods themselves. These to prove the point:

At 430—An assorted lot of plain and fancy Weaves, among them Cheviots, Soleli Jacquards, Hairline Mohairs, Canvas Weaves, etc., all excellent dye and finish, none worth less than 50c. a yard, at Forty-three Cents,

At 65c—Black Novelty Cioths, broche paripees and fancy mohair figures, high instrons finish, positively unequaled anywhere for less than from 70c to 85c a yard, the here price is Sixty-five Cents.

At 1.19 - Pricetly Fabrice; every woman knows what they are; several broken lots, including Mohair Jacquards, Sciells, Canvas, Camel's Hairs, Boncies, Faccune, etc., worth $1.45 to $1.00 a yd., all to go at Oue Dollar and Nineteen cents, Colored Dress Fabrics.

Delicacy of color, novelty of weave and lowness of price are the three distin-quishing features of our Antumnal textile display. You may look at goods in ther places, but you'll do your buying here.

Tinsel fabrics are the lower priced o threads are of pure silver; the body of the fabric is of silk. The brocades are all beautiful, and many of them are exceedingly so. These fabrics are made about five-eighths of a yard in width, and they sell at various prices up to $25 and sometimes as high as $50 a yard. The costliest of these fabrics are very rarely imported into this country, brocades at $10 and $12 a yard being about the highest priced used here. If more elaborate fabrics are required, they are usually imported to order. The finer fabrics, with metal threads, are made in France, the commoner kinds in Ger-

Gold and silver brocades are here used almost exclusively for church purposes and chiefly for vestments. They are imported in red, violet and green and also in black with silver threads, the black and silver being for mourning. Gold and silver brocades are also used to a limited extent for decorative purposes. About the said by those who know that his earnings on his last visit amounted to nearly $500 a month.
